Beginnings
Things taking shape
Beginnings leave their mark on us
And we leave our marks on beginnings

To begin is to discover

To create

To become

"Are we a piece of machinery that, passive, takes the impression of the passing accident?

Or do these workings within us argue something above the trodden clod?"

— Robert Burns

Our dreams are our wings.
Our visions lift our feet from the earth.

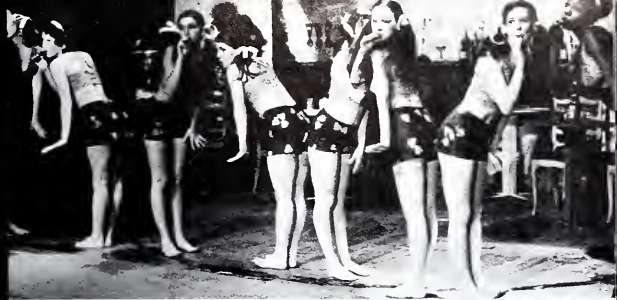

But between the dream and its realization
Is the struggle of our education
The forging and fashioning of our world

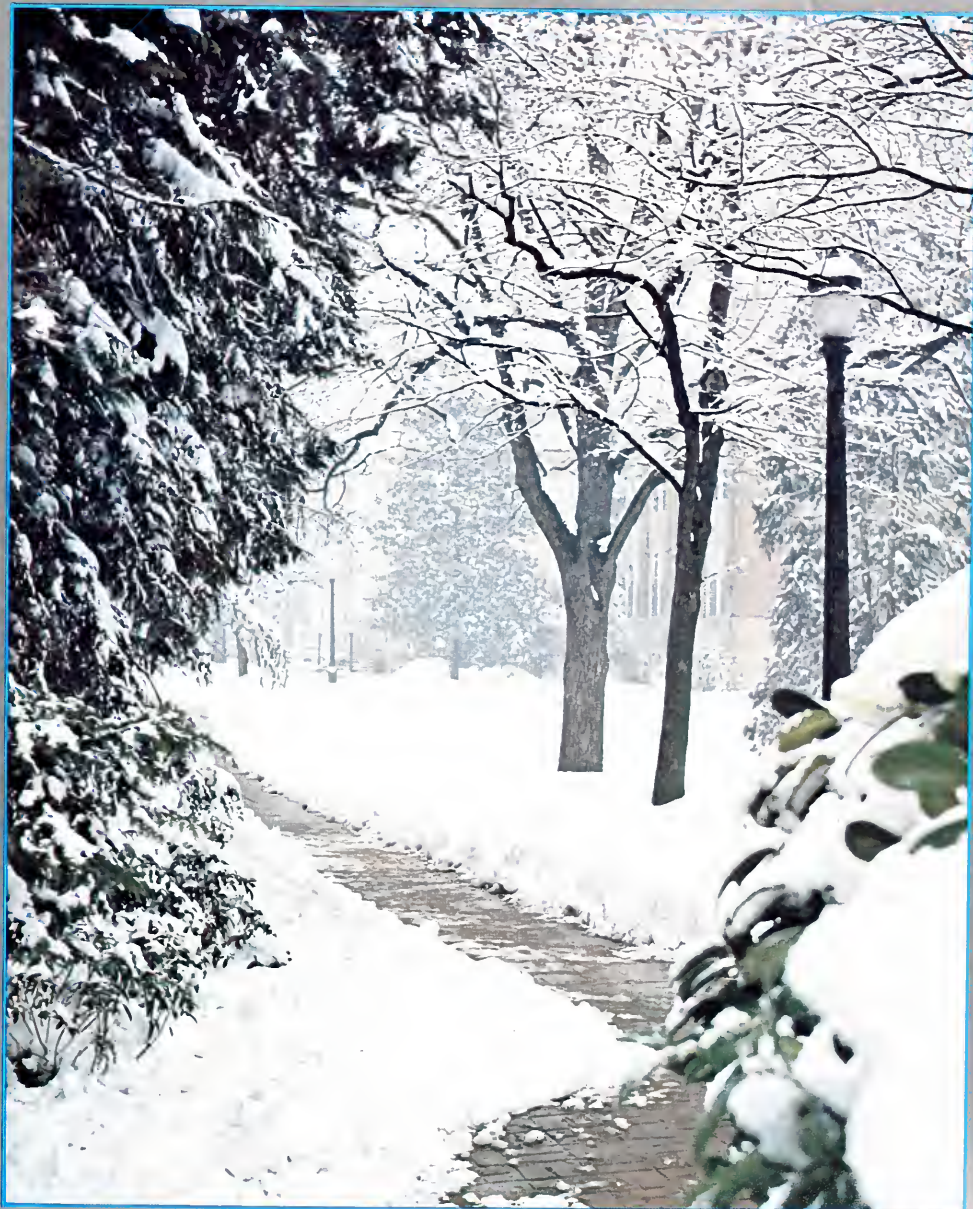

Our creative endeavors transcend the arts.

Learning
Discovering Creating Becoming

guys

Becoming ourselves
As we want ourselves to be
Each in our own way
Each creating our own art

Who is there so bold as to proclaim that he has defined art? That he has enumerated all its facets?

Alexander Solzhenitsyn

Our beginnings have their roots in the past.

DISCOVERING . . .

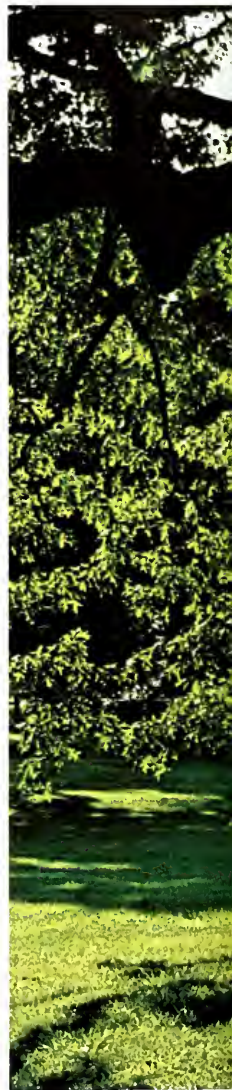

INVENTING . . .

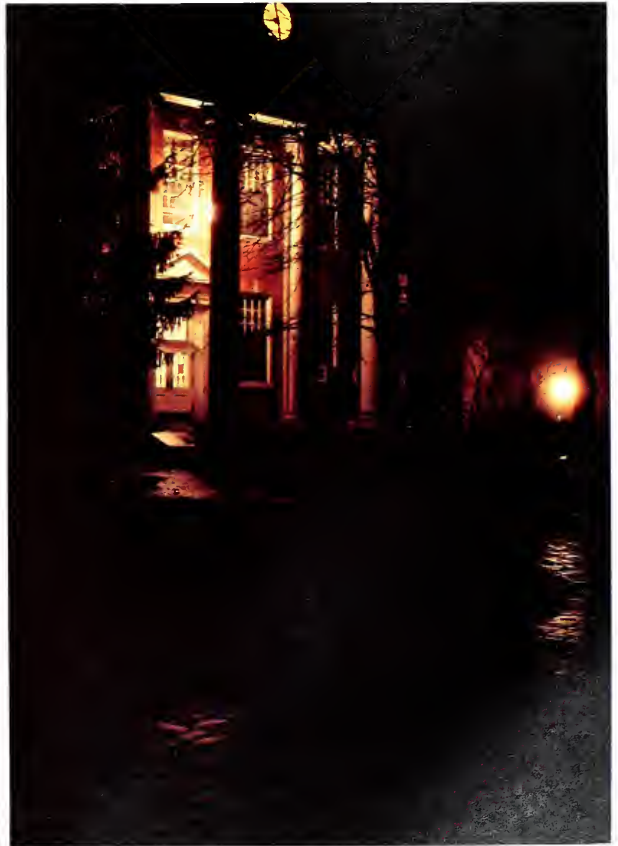

CREATING . . .

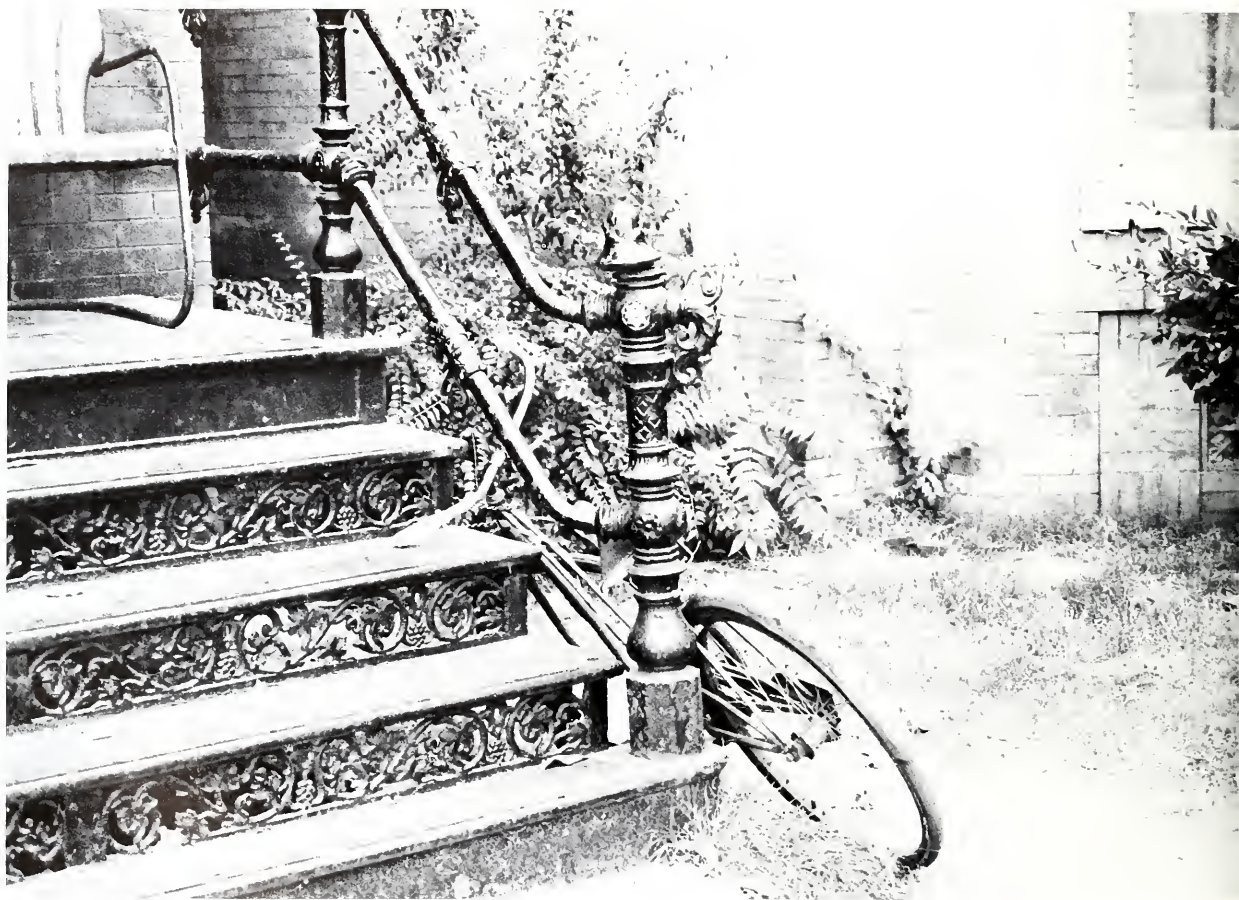

BECOMING . . .

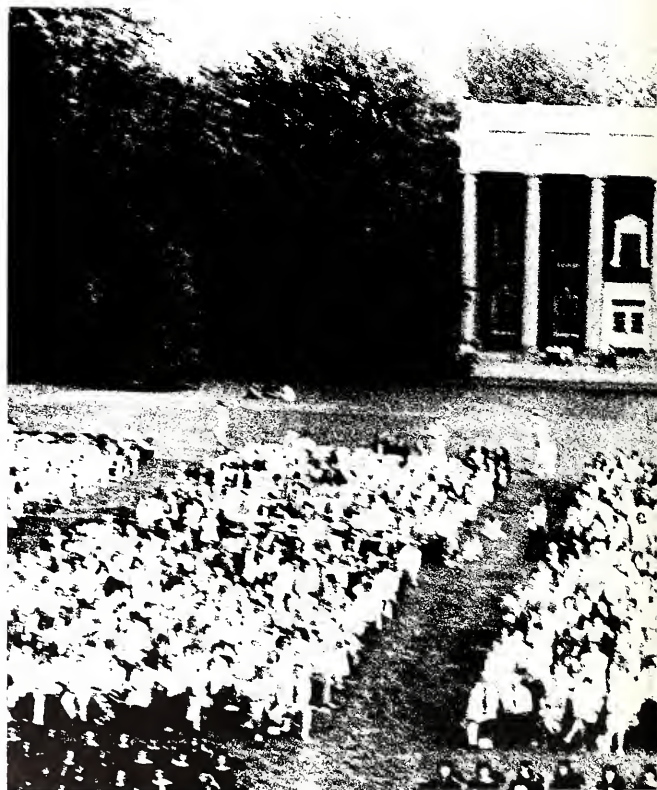

PROGRESSING
FROM BEGINNING TO ENDING

WHICH IS IN REALITY ONLY ANOTHER BEGINNING

DEDICATION

Claudia Moore Read

I do not claim that anyone can be taught to create,
but only that talent or possibly genius can be supported and informed by know-how . . .

Doris Humphrey

In recognition of the years spent pursuing the creative spirit. Through her contributions and those of many others a truly creative atmosphere has been fostered in the liberal arts tradition of Mary Washington College.

Throughout this book I have tried to illustrate the creative process at Mary Washington College. Many of the ideas would have been impossible to convey without the efforts of Mr. Dervin, Mr. Kemp, Mr. Ascari, Mr. Taylor, Mr. Lamph, Mrs. Vanier, and the Office of Information Services. I extend special thanks to Jim Ellis of Hunter Publishing Company for his inestimable time and advice. I also appreciate the excellent photography of Stevens Studios. Finally I shall always remember the generosity of a hard working staff.
